FIRST DAY—THURSDAY.

After singing, and prayer by Rev. Mr. Burges of New Hampshire, a report of proceedings for the afternoon was submitted by Mr. Malby to acceptance of conference and adopted.

An address was made by Mr. Latham. He said that as Messrs. from Mt. Lebanon he would not speak of scenes in the East, but of one in which all present have a near interest—Calvary—Calvary—Calvary. (Though not present in body on the earth, yet by his spirit everywhere. We do not need as the Orient the images of Christ, and not only as he present in spirit, but, as we may say in some sense in body also.)

He spoke of communion with Christ by faith on this account, of four not needing images of him and clothed with an earnest prayer to Christ for his presence, it made this place the house of God, by filling it with his spirit.

Next followed a prayer by Mr. Whitcomb and an anthem from the choir, close upon which followed an address by Rev. Mr. Johnson, Agent of the American Sabbath School Union.

He said his observations would be based upon the remark that whatever we do should be for the glory of God rather than to promote our own selfish ends.

Why has the American Sabbath School Union a claim upon the churches of Maine?

The first reason is, it is economical in its operations. 120 Sabbath Schools have been organized during the past year, and the number of children is probably 23,000. There will be about 4000 individuals engaged in teaching. Our sevenths of that number of years will make at least 500 years labor expended the last

Where did the money come from?

It really did not cost anything. (Something I don't exactly understand.) Another reason is its adaptability to the wants of our nation. Take a small neighborhood in the West or even in our State where there are five or six different denominations, and how can a pastor be supported? Which of the denominations will yield? But all can unite in a Sabbath school Another reason is that its operations are benevolent in the highest degree. It is not done in total in the operations.

The results of what it does return upon the churches themselves. Then to promote their benefit we urge that this object be supported to the utmost.

Another reason I will mention is, that God's spirit has accompanied these efforts.

There has been an increase of contributions during the past year of $4000 and a corresponding increase of effort.

Another reason for supporting the Society is that it is based on the common principle, or that in the principle of ground upon which we shall leave the earth and stand at the judgment seat. There we shall see eye to eye and know even as we are known.

Dr. Cantrich was next presented to the audience to address them on the state of France.

(After a few opening remarks inaudible to a part of the congregation) he said that France, at the period of the 1st of January had shared largely in the benefits flowing from the revolution effected by Luther. Those familiar with D'Aubigne's history are familiar with the names of Strickland and others, of this stamp.

The life of Louis 14th was marked by persecution on the result of which was almost to banish Protestants from the land. Up to the period of the 1st of January there seemed to be a gradual decline, towards the deplorable state of in-delity, but the establishment of a Bible society in London as also of some in France and elsewhere exerted a restraining influence.

Bonaparte after working for a while without success, thought it would be convenient to carry out the object of his policy to continue the alliance of the Pope. It was a hollow alliance however. Charles 10th was a weak prince and his influence neither undecided, but that of Louis 18th was almost wholly negative. Since the recent revolution, it appears from a French magazine published in consecutive numbers, that Louis had been in close correspondence with the Pope. At the time when he seemed most firmly entrenched in power God saw fit to drive him from the throne.

This Revolution was materially affected by the Emancipation of the whole country, and of course the benevolent institutions of France. The ministries, represented by Mr. Bridel occupied a distinguished place in the line of benevolence.

Paris is the centre of the operations, for the reason that nowhere else is there such a concentration of power. Paris is the mean of France is the heart of France, it is the whole of France. What Paris thinks France thinks, what Paris says France says, Paris designs France desires. Paris is a Republic, France is a Republic.

Republic is the name of the nation is the reason of this centralization of power, and this forms almost an insuperable barrier to spiritual improvement.

All the mind is made free civil freedom although it may be established by the free suffrages of the people, will never be enjoyed. There is every now a proposition before the new Assembly a proposition for the reestablishment of poverty, over the land and it is said the body of would defy the cost, but on the contrary they would swallow up everything. The one new building is a simple style, and conducted by business men. I know they have been and by some of my friends, but I will state that their money has been faithfully expended.

There is a little superabundance on the point

There are two Societies, the Bethel Society and the Seamen's Society. All money is coming in to the former has been carefully expended.

The total cost of the Bethel will be $7000, by this 5000 have been raised, 1000 a promise by men in Portland, and one thousand remains to be raised. The Rev. gentleman went on to state that this is a local object except as far as the building is local.

Since he had been recently on the sea he might be expected to say something about his impressions respecting a sea voyage. He would state four surprises or wonders of what occurred to him, but before doing so, would entreat the delegates to carry home to their several churches the cause of the 1st.

1st surprise is that any saint ever admits his children to go to sea. If they run away his persons can not help it. So far from sending him away from temptation, the sea is sent into the very worst of it when he goes on sea. And wonder, that any who ever go to sea ever want to go a second time.

The next kind of surprise was that every one who goes to sea must not only I can only say as for it by the returning grace of God.

Mr. Bushnell agent for Seamen's cause next spoke. He urged the claims of Seamen's cause
